SIXTY-CENT SILVER IS PREDICTED BY PITTMAN

RENO, Sept. 5—(UP)—Senator Key Pittman, addressing a Labor Day crowd here last night, predicted the ratification in January of the silver agreement which he effected in London, this summer, by the United States and other interested countries.

60-70 CENT SILVER
The result of the ratification, he said, would be a price for silver of from sixty to seventy cents an ounce.

The silver agreement will halt the melting of silver coins and subsequent flooding of the metal markets with bullion. The melting up of silver coins and their sale as bullion was the cause of the drop in silver prices, he stated.

The silver agreement also prohibits the sale of silver bullion, thus preventing a deluge of the metal into the United States, which would result in the price going down again.

"DON'T BE IMPATIENT"

Pittman reviewed the long battle for a restoration of silver as a medium of exchange, citing the history and causes of the depression and emphasizing the measures the present administration is making for recovery.

"There will be slips in the ascent to recovery, but don't be impatient," Pittman said in conclusion.

"Give the president your support. There has been a revolution of thought, planning and intelligence, but a revolution without bloodshed. It will take a little time for us to feel the effects, but prosperity will return within 12 months," the silver expert declared.

JOHN BROOKS DIES IN LOS ANGELES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Former Carson Man Fails in Search for Health in Southern California

Funeral services were held in Los Angeles yesterday for John W. Brooks, who died in a hospital there on Sunday.

Brooks had been ill for several months, and went to Los Angeles about three months ago in an attempt to regain his health in a lower altitude. His condition steadily grew worse, however, and last week friends here were notified that his death was imminent.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julia Brooks, two sons, John and Wellington Brooks, and a daughter, Miss Helen Brooks. All the members of his family were with him in Los Angeles at the time of his death.

ACTIVE IN PUBLIC LIFE

Brooks was a native of North Carolina, and was sixty-two years old. He had lived in Nevada for more than twenty-five years, during most of which time he was active in public affairs. He was a member of the state legislature in 1909, at which time he helped establish the vocational education system of the state.

During recent years he had been deputy secretary of state under W. G. Graehouse. He was an active advocate of labor affairs all his life.

Brooks' last political ambition was to be a member of the state convention to ratify the repeal of prohibition, which took place today. He had for years been an active opponent of the liquor law, and wished to be on hand when this state rejected it.

CARSON SCHOOLS OPEN NEW YEAR WITH GOOD ATTENDANCE

Another school year began for almost 400 Carson boys and girls today, as both the high school and the elementary grades commenced their season.

Only a half-day session of school was held today, but regular classes will begin tomorrow, with a full day's work for the pupils.

EXPECT INCREASE

Superintendent Charles Priest said at the close of registration today that the number of pupils so far compares favorably with those in recent years. In the elementary grades a total of 257 pupils, 125 boys and 132 girls, have registered, and in the four high school classes 113, 60 boys and 53 girls, have entered. Within the next ten days, Priest said, past years show that an additional number of from fifteen to twenty-five will register.

The entering class in high school is the largest in the history of the school, Priest said, numbering 33 boys and girls. The first grade in the elementary school, however, numbers slightly less than it has in previous years.

This morning was given over to opening exercises, with a salute to the flag and instructions to the pupils. This afternoon teachers were on hand to check books and organize their programs for the year, but there were no classes.

NEW CUBAN REVOLUTION OVERTHROWS YOUNG GOVERNMENT

Cespedes Government Does Not Represent People, Radicals Declare

HAVANA, Sept. 5—(UP)—Revolution this afternoon overthrew the three-week-old Cespedes government, following the desertion of the army, navy, and police forces.

The entire Cespedes cabinet resigned, and President Cespedes himself, although he did not submit a formal resignation, stepped out of the presidency and departed for his home.

REBELS IN PALACE

A revolutionary executive commission took possession of the presidential palace immediately upon Cespedes' abdication, and will retain control of it until the new government has been formed.

The rebels claimed to have control of every military post in every province, with officers and enlisted men who remained loyal to the government under arrest.

Meanwhile, United States warships anchored in the harbor and prepared to land troops if necessary to protect lives and property of Americans in Havana.

In Santiago, the first violence of the new revolution cropped up. Soldiers assaulted the civil jail and killed four men who were accused of being connected with the deposed Machado regime.

HAVANA, Sept. 5—(UP)—Cuba was plunged into a new revolution today, when the enlisted men of the army, navy, and police forces joined the radical opposition which is demanding the resignation of the new government.

NOT REPRESENTATIVE

The feeling among the opposition is that the Cespedes government is not representative of the people.

Instead, a provisional government is desired, which would call a constitutional assembly to enact reforms before an election.
