

FORMER LEGISLATOR IS DEAD FROM INJURIES

OGDEN, June 3.—As the result of injuries received in 1919, which kept him confined to his home practically ever since, George Derrick Folkman, former member of the state legislature, died yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 924 Capitol avenue. He was 61 years of age.

Mr. Folkman was born at Ogden, April 22, 1860, the son of Christopher O. and Lea M. Funk Folkman. He was married to Dina Palmer July 3, 1884, at Salt Lake by Daniel H. Wells. He lived at Plain City from the time he was a boy until about sixteen years ago, when he moved back to Ogden, and resided there until the time of his death. For years he was deputy sheriff and custodian of the county courthouse. He served as state legislator in 1914 and 1915, when he entered the employ of the Holley Milling company at the Ogden mill, where he remained until the time of his accident. At the time of his death he was a member of the high priests' quorum of the Weber stake.

Mr. Folkman was the father of ten children, eight of whom and his wife survive him. They are Wesley P., Earl W., Ritta P., Stanley A., Viola C., Robert Oscar, all of Ogden, and E. Orin of Portland, Ore. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: C. O. Folkman, Caroline E. Wiggins, Elizabeth Ipsen, Annie Hunt of Baker City, Ore., and Joseph Folkman, Gloria Brown and Godella Painter of Burley, Idaho. Five grandchildren survive him.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Twelfth ward chapel. It will be conducted by Bishop T. B. Wheelwright.

The body will lie in state Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday until 1 o'clock at the home, 924 Capitol avenue. Burial will take place in the Ogden City cemetery.
