The participating parties are identified with their parents.

The groom has permission from the authorities and both sets of parents to enter matrimony and have the engagement recorded by the court.

Witnesses are present.
In this paragraph all stipulations are discussed. The groom will receive from his parents the house and garden, money, in exchange for free room for the rest of their lives. Also, brothers and sisters of the groom are to have free access to the house as long as they are not yet married.
Here are the items the bride is bringing into the marriage.

In case of death the surviving spouse or heirs take possession of the property and receive fixed amounts of money.
Finally, the contract is signed after the couple and the witnesses agreed and the official not seeing any legal impediments.