

FamilySearch African Oral History Project

FamilySearch is interested in helping preserve the names of the families and ancestors of your tribe, village, or clan so that these names are not lost for future generations. We have received permission from your king, chief, or clan head to visit you. We would like to interview heads of clans or families and document their lineage. At the end of our work, we provide you with a written copy of the genealogy of all those we interview. This service is free of charge.

How we can work together

Making introductions

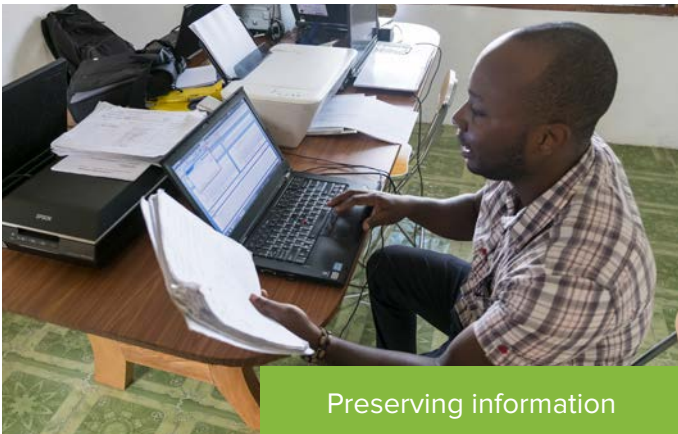

Visiting with leaders

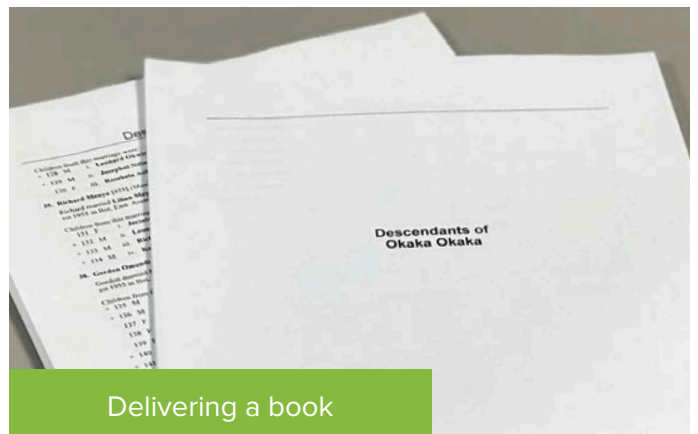

Recruiting agents

Interviewing families

Preserving information

Delivering a book