

How to use digitized records on the Polish State Archives' website

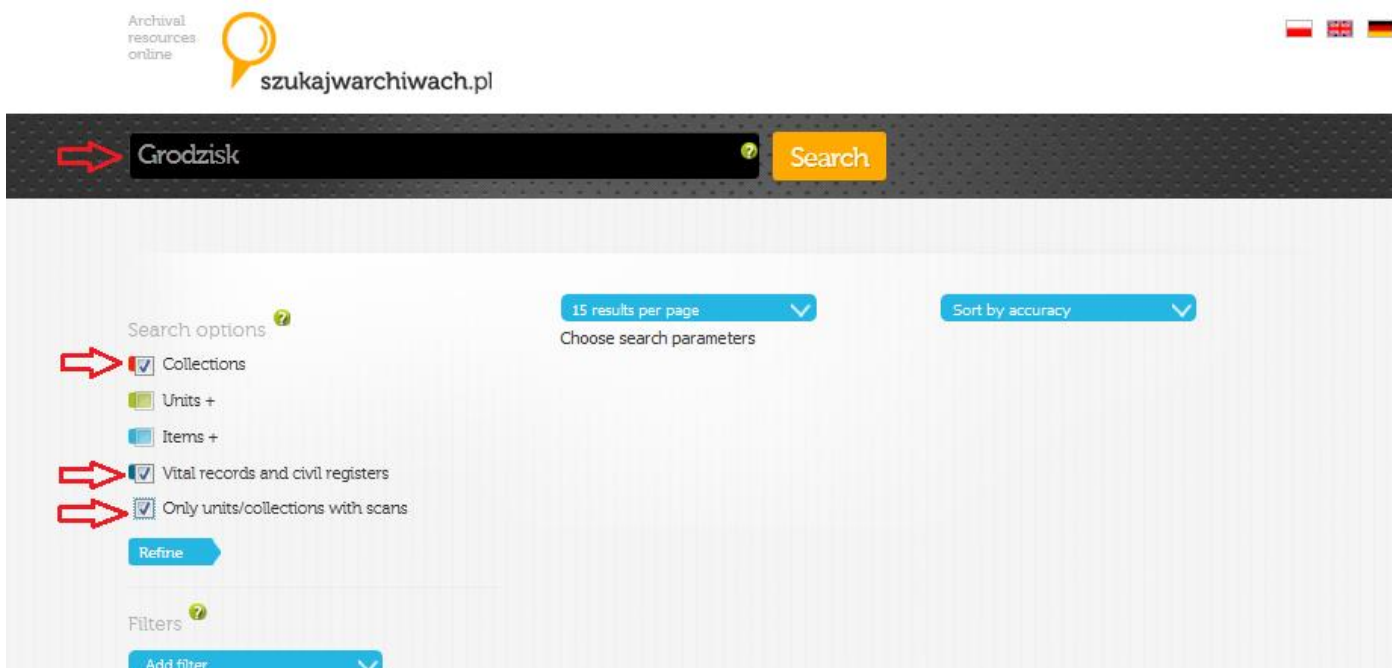

This is the Polish State Archives' website that contains a variety of digitized vital records.

Go to <http://www.szukajwarchiwach.pl/>.

Exit out of the white pop-up window Databases in state archives by checking the Do not show box at the bottom left corner or by clicking the small “x” at the top right corner of the window. If you would like to use English, please change the language version at the top right corner of the website.

Because the results of a simplified search are not very accurate (collections, units and items are mixed), please choose “Advanced search” under the search box. You will be moved to the following page:

In the search box, provide the place name for the parish or civil registry office (e.g. Grodzisk). Also check the following boxes: “Collections”, “Vital records and civil registers” and “Only units/collections with scans”. This will reduce the number of results. Click the orange search button.

You can go to the next scan using the button marked with a red arrow. This way of viewing is not comfortable because of low magnification. You may use the “magnifier” button with the letter Z (marked with a blue arrow) but the best option is to choose the full screen option (marked with a green arrow).

Now your scan is in high resolution and you can move it using your mouse.

You may go to the previous or next scan using the links located under the scan (marked with red arrows). You can also save a scan by using the “Download” link at the bottom of screen (marked with a green arrow).
