This class aims to help you better understand basic strategy for tracing your emigrant ancestors back to their parish in Sweden. It also explains what each important record type typically contains and why they are important.

HOME AND FAMILY SOURCES

Interview family members. Ask if anyone has pictures, postcards, letters, passports or other documents relating to your immigrant. These aren’t crucial, but they may be just the clue you need to find your ancestor’s hometown in Sweden.

US CENSUS RESEARCH

Good US Research starts with Census. Censuses will provide a foundation for further research. These records may include:

- Family Information
- Residence in America over time
- Approximate age
- Immigration year (included in the 1900, 1910, 1920, and 1930 censuses)
- Naturalization information (included in the 1870, 1900, 1910, 1920, and 1930 censuses)
